Therefore, they erected buildings there just as in the mother country, paying no attention to the termite. This is another reason for the serious damage, for Japanese buildings are not suited to the Tropics. They rather attract the termite, since the foundation timbers are laid in contact with the ground. From the point of view of economy, it is impossible to eliminate such nonresistant timbers from Japanese buildings. Therefore, a discovery of a new method of building construction, by which the attack of the termite can be absolutely prevented, becomes an important problem. As a result of bitter experience during the last twenty years, the method of constructing buildings and the treatment of nonresistant timbers have been greatly improved. As it is practically proved that the termite-proof building construction that has been recently adopted by the Government of Formosa is somewhat satisfactory, I, having been chiefly concerned with the investigation, wish to explain the method in detail. Disinfection of the ground.--Not only is Coptotermes formosanus widely distributed throughout Formosa, but it occupies the whole ground densely; so that, as a first step in erecting a building, it is absolutely necessary, to destroy the pest, to keep the site free from the source of...
