Original publisher: Ann Arbor, Mich. : University of Michigan, College of Engineering, Dept. of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, Radiation Laboratory, 1990 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)276838087 Excerpt: . . . nodefields. Substituting (24) into (23) and replacing S in the first pair of integrals with S_e , the area of the eth surface element, gives the portion of F_s attributed to the eth element. As noted earlier, to enforce the stationarity condition we need the derivatives of F_s with respect to the node fields. For the eth element we have $OF dS - 2k_2 \iint N_t r. J Y; aodS (25) (, (26) - 2: L: t, Oy : Ox -) GodS_e azid OFIO , 0$ since F_s is not a function of E , . We note that in deriving (25) and (26) the differentiation was performed only with respect to the node fields outside the square brackets in (23) while those introduced by substituting (2) into (6) remained unaffected. - Further, we remark that the evaluation of the surface integrals in (25) and (26), although not trivial, can be done through analytical and numerical means as discussed in the Appendix. It remains to discretize (16) which involves the excitation fields. By replacing M with E in accordance with (1) we obtain This can again be discretized by introducing the expansion (24) and by doing so we 10 This item ships from La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
