Canongate U.S., 2010. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: "[Ugresic's] instincts as a storyteller are sure. . . . A playful, inventive, and humane look at women and aging."Kirkus Reviews "Ugresic's work belongs in the tradition in which storytelling is a form of fantasy, play, a non-representational patterning of experience, and a defining activity of social criticism. Secular, acerbic, comic, springing from skepticism, her fiction reflects a return to earlier forms: allegory, parable, fable, aphorism, midrashim or proverbial wisdom literature. . . . A hybrid work, a comic fable in three parts, combining autobiography, travel, memoir, fable, satire, and essay. . . . Ugresic's approach to myths opposes the archaic view that there is a time-hallowed truth waiting to be unveiled, instead treating the stories as volatile and dynamic . . . attempting to dispel the ill effects, misery, prejudices, and disgust that bedevil female aging."Marina Warner,London Review of Books "A mirthlessly witty divertimento on female old age. Ugresic's meta-narrative sings with intelligence; its cryptic weirdness challenges the reader. . . . A whirligig of outrageous invention."Stevie Davies,The Independent "Ugresic's vision of the senile and the displaced, living among the ruins of the post-Communism and Separatism in one of the five fragmented countries of former Yugoslavia, is astutely analytical of Balkan dystopia, beautifully written, dolefully humorous. . . . Here is Margaret Atwood's dark vision of the speciousness of modern times coexisting comfortably with Molly Keane's sense of absurdity, against a backdrop of the Balkan surreal out ofThe Good Soldier Schweik. . . . It is a grown up novel with grown up prepositions; its humane vision of the world is driven by great imaginative impetus."Times Literary Supplement "Ugresic's retelling may be blisteringly postmodern in its execution but at its heart is...
