Then it is so distinctively Spanish, so un-American in every way, so suggestive of Old World habits and Tropical languor; and this, too, in spite of the fact that its stores are largely filled with very evidently American-made goods, and that one sees everywhere American electric cars and American automobiles. The approach to the city from the sea is striking - even beautiful. With the ancient castle on the high Morro (or height) on the left, and the low sweep of the crowded city on the right, across the very narrow entrance to the harbour within, the first sight of Havana interests one extremely. The narrow streets, barely wide enough between the curbs to let two vehicles pass, where the sidewalks are often but a foot wide, so that the street car crowds the pedestrians into single file,...
