MAGNETIC TECHNIQUES FOR THE TREATMENT OF MATERIALS

Book Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: Springer Netherlands | In the years following the publication of Magnetic Methods for the Treatment of Minerals by Elsevier in 1987, many changes have taken place in magnetic technology. While fundamental and thorough, the above treatise reflected preferences and philosophy of research and the development and application of magnetic methods as they were practiced in the second half of the last century. Although demand for metals and minerals has not diminished, the dominant drivers of the early 21st century differ significantly from those of the late 20th. The priorities of nuclear power, defence, and energy-demanding and waste-generating beneficiation of mineral resources are being replaced by those associated with technology sustainability, environmental and knowledge management, recycling, and health care. Research priorities and product development of the last century cannot, therefore, satisfactorily meet criteria of the 21st century. Considerable technological progress has been achieved in areas such as automation, computerization, sustainable material science, laboratory and plant practices and separation equipment. New permanent magnetic materials, advances in practical applications of superconductivity and availability of sophisticated modelling tools have changed the technological landscape. As a result, innovation and technology transfer in magnetic technology have been remarkably successful during the last two decades. The title of this monograph reflects the fact that the book covers not only the application of magnetic techniques in the minerals industry, but also in recycling, environmental engineering and biomedical sciences. | Preface. 1: Principles of Magnetic Treatment. 1.1. Magnetic separation and innovation. 1.2. Principle of magnetic separation. 1.3. Fundamental quantities of magnetism. 1.4. Magnetic properties of materials. 1.5. Magnetic properties of minerals. 1.6.
